

GDPR TRANSPARENCY STATEMENT

PWI and GDPR – How we use your information

The PWI takes the secure storage and appropriate use of personal data very seriously.

It is a Data Controller under the Data Protection Act 1998 and will have the same role under the General Data Protection Regulation (GDPR) 2018.

The lawful basis on which it processes data is on the whole by contract. Providing services to members and purchases by non-members fall into this category. Occasionally it may process data by legitimate interests or consent. In all cases of consent, the PWI will seek positive giving of consent and will make clear the purpose for which personal data is being collected.

When the PWI provides services to you, it may need to pass your data securely to its approved suppliers, Data Processors – for example to its Journal publishing house. All such Data Processors will be carefully vetted to ensure that they fully comply with the GDPR requirements. The PWI will never sell your personal data or pass it to third parties for marketing purposes.

The PWI only holds member data that has been supplied directly and stores it securely.

Information is available for view and update by each member through the Membership Dashboard on the website. Alternatively, members can contact the PWI Membership Team at secretary@thepwi.org or by post.

The PWI's Privacy Policy can be viewed on the website at https://www.thepwi.org/uploads/privacy_policy.

The updated version for the processing of personal data under GDPR will be available on the website in May.

A print copy is available to members by request from the Secretary.
